Bourbon Circuit Court.

The Friday morning session of the Bourbon Circuit Court was entirely taken up with the case of the Commonwealth against Ed Frakes, a negro accused of shooting with intent to kill John Ross, also a negro. The jury in this case returned a verdict of guilty and assessed a fine of $200. This case completed the continued criminal cases from last term and as the present grand jury has not reported, Judge Sandridge at once stated that he would call for trial the various common law cases that had been previously assigned for trial.

The first case was that of Yerkes and Kenney vs. E. K. Thomas, an action for the recovery of the purchase price on a machine sold by the plaintiff to the defendant. The defense is that the machine did not come up to terms set out in the contract and has failed to work in a satisfactory manner. Plaintiffs allege that the defendant negligently allowed a wrench to pass through the machine, thereby causing a defect in the mechanism. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Pres. Lannum returned a verdict of assault and battery and sentenced the defendant to six months in the county jail. In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Dan Menitee, the jurymen again reported to the court that it was hopelessly divided and unable to agree, and the Court dismissed them.

The grand jury made a partial report of a negative nature. The cases of Mag Clay and Dan Chinn, two negroes accused of taking a sum of money from an Italian laborer, were dismissed by that body, as was Mason Turner, accused of assault and battery.

The grand jury was not in session Saturday owing to the absence of Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin who was called to Frankfort.

The entire day yesterday was consumed in the case of Mrs. Nancy Shropshire vs. E. W. Rose, the jury returning a verdict for the defendant.

Spring Opening.

Don't forget the date of our Spring Display of fine millinery which will be on Thursday, March 23. We will show the ladies of this section some rare Parisian models to select from. No matter what your spring suit is we can please you with a hat suitable to go with it and won't take all you have to pay for it either.

Valuable Dog Killed.

"Black Child," a valuable Cocker spaniel, the property of the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hedges, was killed yesterday near the Vine street crossing by a passenger train. The dog had been pronounced by canine fanciers as a fine specimen of the breed, the product of the New York Kennel Club and was highly valued. The devotion of the animal to the Hedges family was very noticeable, and it is supposed he had gone to the depot in search of Mr. Hedges who was in Lexington, and was returning home by the railroad when killed.

See Us First.

If you will call on us on March 23 we will show you something in hats that will certainly catch your eye. Remember too you won't have to mortgage your home to pay for it either. Call in and have a look, the hats will sell themselves.

Let's Have a Clean City.

The present Board of Health with Dr. A. H. Keller as chairman is certainly doing some good work. You can see garbage being hauled out of the city at all hours during the day. Dr. Keller is very stringent in his rules and has put a stop to promiscuous dumping of all kinds of refuse in the city limits. All contagious diseases are now promptly reported, placards posted on the premises and the families quarantined. If the citizens will only give the health board a little help we will have one of the most sanitary and healthful cities in the State this spring. Every property owner who is not connected with the sewer should do so at once and if he is not so inclined he should be made to do so by the health board and thereby do away with the objectionable cess pools that are so objectionable to the community. Let everybody look alike to you in this good work "Doc," make the stragglers get in line, even if you do get a little "cussin'."

Splendid Show at the Grand.

Manager Porter, of the Paris Grand, gave his patrons last night a performance which one would hardly expect to see in Paris for a time.

The Four Gardners have an act which is just to the liking of the major portion of the Grand audiences, which was evidenced by a storm of applause which forced the four people to respond again and again. Two attractive girls, a neatly dressed young man and a very docile dog make up the act which introduces some clever dancing, several bright singing numbers and some special scenery and electrical effects, which enhance the act to a great extent. The wardrobe used in the act is A1, and from start to finish one seldom finds a more pleasing innovation.

This act with the three reels of pictures make up a performance well worth several times the admission price. Tonight will be the last opportunity to see this splendid performance.

Monotony.

The housewife, tired of heastly grinds, turned loose some thoughts that were in mind; when her husband came from his toil at night, she said the world didn't use her right. "I'm always doing the same old chores, I'm always sweeping the same old floors; I'm always washing the same old frocks, and darnin' holes in the same old socks. I'm sick and tired of this wretched life, there is no joy for a poor man's wife." The wife of the rich man sighed and said: "Gee whizz, a dame might as well be dead. I'm always doing my social chores, I'm always wearing at stately bodes; I'm always choosing the proper gown. I'm always motorin' thru the town. I wish I wish I had ten-foot wings; I'd fly away to some lowly cot, and do a stint with a coffee pot." We all grow tired of the work we do, and sigh and rant till the air is blue. But it does no good, and it bales no hay, and the wise man chases such thoughts away. The world improves with each passing year, because each man in his little sphere, takes off his jacket and grins and sings and keeps on doing the same old things.—Exchange.

Young Mother is Burned.

Mrs. Ott West was fatally burned at her home near Pilot Knob, Franklin county, Friday morning. She was burning some trash in her yard, when her dress became ignited and she was soon surrounded by flames. It is not believed she can recover. She is twenty years old and has a young child.

Newman Says He Will Make Fight.

J. W. Newman, of Woodford county, who claims to have a contract with the State Board of Agriculture to act as secretary of the State Fair for a period of four years from January 1, 1910, and to whose place as secretary Perry M. Shy, of Paris, was elected last week, has served notice upon Commissioner of Agriculture Rackin that he would endeavor to enforce that contract in the courts. It is likely that a friendly suit will be filed at Frankfort or at Louisville to test the contract.

Shooting at Somerset.

Clarence Carl, son of a well known merchant, shot to death Sam Adams in Somerset. The fight had no connection with the strike trouble.

Dress Caught on Fire.

Mrs. J. H. Cooper was severely burned in Midway Wednesday night. She was seated before the grate with her baby in her lap when she discovered her apron afire. Her limbs and one arm are considerably burned.

Republican Committee Called.

Chairman Winn, of the Republican State Central Committee, has called a meeting of the committee to be held in Louisville April 1. At this meeting will be considered the calling of a convention to make the Republican nominations for State officers.

Two opinions exist. One is that a convention should be held before the Democrats hold their primary. Another is that the nominations should be made by a convention to be held in Louisville August 1.

Bible with Colored Characters.

It is reported from Rome, Ga., that book agents now operating in Floyd county and neighboring counties are reaping a rich harvest from the sale of negroes of bibles in which Christ, the angels and various other Scriptural characters are pictured in the various illustrations with black faces. It is further stated that the intrinsic value of the bibles being sold is only seventy-five cents, but that the change is ten dollars—two dollars down and the balance on the installment plan. According to the published account, this is the first time that such a "game" has been worked in that section. Granting that so inherently improbable a story is true, we are inclined to think that this is the first time that such a "game" has been worked in any section. The experiment has been tried more than once, but according to reports has always failed. An amusing story of such experiment appeared in the Saturday Evening Post a few years ago. An inventive genius with more imagination than money put all his available funds into an edition of bibles with "colored angels" and started on a Southern tour with the expectation of making a fortune. But he attended and addressed only one assembly of negroes. The latter delighted to hear of a Bible that "did justice" to the black man, and they almost fell over each other in their eagerness to look at it, but when they saw the "colored angels" their enthusiasm died a sudden death; they not only did not invest, but hurriedly retired, leaving the astonished book agent to pack up his bibles and learn by inquiry that his vanished audience without exception believed that their souls were white and that black skin and woolly hair were to be left behind when they shuffled off this mortal coil.

While the tobacco exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair, 1910 was a good one, they received a great many complaints from the farmers and dealers of tobacco in different sections of this state and adjoining states that they could not get their samples ready in time for the fair. At the late curing of the crop, the board at a recent meeting adopted a schedule of awards on tobacco grown in 1910 on both Burley and Dark tobacco, making two extra classes upon which premiums will be given this year. These classes are open to dealers as well as farmers, the conditions of entry being the same as heretofore. It is to be hoped that the farmers and dealers will pick their samples now and send to the secretary for entry blanks. The premium list on 1911 tobacco will be adopted and published later.

Hogs appear to be taking a down turn. Fat cattle trade about as dull as it has been for a long time. Good, active demand for stockers and feeders, good grades are shown preference by buyers. The hull market remains firm and active, and some choice fat bulls above top quotations. Strong local demand for good packing hogs, not enough coming to supply the trade. Butchers claim the Lenten season and low price of eggs is playing havoc with the meat trade, some say it is worse than the meat boycott. Medium to good and common cows have been duller than any other class of cattle during the past few days. That branch of the trade is badly neglected.—Farmers' Home Journal.

A Mystery.

Election for Bond Issue.

Need for New System.

Even in the kindergartens it would be well, while playing, to endeavor to mold the characters of the dear little ones. A system of education which is a century behind needs to be revolutionized, and whose ever devotes himself to the task of bringing about this change and solves it will secure a most beautiful and everlasting monument, the eternal gratitude of all humanity.

Railroad Extension.

The whistling wind is whispering that the Louisville & Nashville system having absorbed the L. & E. railroad and failed in the attempt to buy the Ohio & Kentucky will at once push the Mountain Central through Hazel Green to Hetchcawa and extend the system so as to defeat the ends of the road they have failed to buy. The L. & N. may extend the Mountain Central through and connect with the Norfolk & Western or get a connecting line to Pikeville. John Day, President of the Mountain Central, engineered the deal by which the L. & N. acquired the L. & E. and it is learned that he is now with the L. & N. on the last mentioned deal. He and his brother, Floyd, own the Mountain Central and it is believed John will do all he can to get his road through this country.—Hazel Green Herald.

Queer Lawsuit.

Perhaps the most remarkable suit ever brought is on the records of the court of the exchequer in England. It was filed on Oct. 3, 1723, and it sets forth very clearly that John Everit and Joseph Williams were highway robbers. In its succinct legal phrases the complaint says that the men formed a partnership for the purpose of carrying on business as highwaymen. It was mighty profitable, as was shown by the fact that Everit sued Williams for the equivalent of $5,000, "being for moneys wrongfully appropriated to defendant's private purse." This was the amount in dispute after the partnership had lasted only a year. Then Everit claimed that he discovered that his partner had not made a fair division of the spoils. The action was adjudged to be a gross contempt of court, and the plaintiff was ordered to pay all costs, while the solicitors who served the writ were fined. One of the solicitors, a man named Wrentham, refused to pay the fine and was sent to prison for six months. Both plaintiff and defendant to the action were subsequently hanged, one at Tyburn and the other at Maidstone.

Spoke Their Minds.

The original woman's rights woman of the modern era, according to a contributor to the Paris Figaro, was Olympe de Gouges, a French woman who was beheaded, but not before she had wittily pointed out the gulf, fixed by custom, between woman's inherent and her civic rights. In 1791, in a manifesto which had no precedent whatever and which contained an article which has kept suffragists going ever since, the intrepid Olympe de Gouges declared, "Woman has the right to mount the scaffold; she should also have the right to mount the tribune."

Another way of expressing the same idea is credited to Mme. Condorcet. It is said that Bonaparte when consul remarked to Mme. Condorcet: "I don't like to have women mix up in politics."

"In a country where their heads are cut off," the wife of the philosopher returned without hesitation, "it is natural that they should want to know the reason why."

Stopping a Steamship.

M. Bertin, chief engineer of naval construction in the French navy, figured out from elaborate calculations in how short a distance a steamship can stop. He demonstrates that a 50,000 ton transatlantic liner, going twenty-nine knots an hour, simply by stopping the engines will come to a stop in one hour and thirteen minutes and will in that time have traveled 4.75 statute miles. The same vessel with reciprocating engines, if these be reversed, will stop in twice its own length and if the engines be turbines in four times its own length. These theoretical calculations are verified by actual experiment. The French minister of marine made the test with some torpedo boats and has on several occasions stopped one by reversing its engine to 606 yards and when the engines were of the turbine type in 273.4 yards.—New York World.

Obedied the Judge.

A little colored girl, deeply insulted by her playmate, who had pushed her "off'n de stoop," took her case before the justice of the peace. He inquired into the circumstances and said, turning to the injured one, "The plaintiff is allowed to ask the defendant a question in regard to the assault."

"What's dat yo' say, sah?"
"I say that you may ask the defendant a question."

"Wh-wha't'll Ah ask her, sah?"

"Any question you like."

The child studied the floor a moment; then, with the politest of smiles, she inquired, "Sally, am yo' mamma well?"—Everybody's.

Held Bible and Rudder.

Some years ago Japan was neither so free nor so friendly with other nations as she is today. In those old days when a foreign ship entered the Japanese ports the captain was obliged to place his Bible and rudder in charge of the chief officer of the port and leave them there until he was ready to sail. Of course he wouldn't sail without either, and the Japs could easily keep tabs on the movements of all ships in their harbors.

The Seven Sleepers.

The seven sleepers of Ephesus, a favorite subject in medieval art, were seven Christians who to escape the persecution of Decius concealed themselves in a cave whose mouth was closed by their enemies. The cave was rediscovered 200 years afterward, when the sleepers awoke youthful and in perfect health.

Both Wrong.

"You have deceived me," she complained. "You gave me to understand that you were rich."

"Well, you deceived me, too," he replied. "You caused me to believe that you would be brave and cheerful if it ever became necessary for us to get along on a small income."—Judge.

Like the Egg.

"He always was a bad egg, but nobody seemed to notice it while he was rich."

"Yes; he was all right until he was broke."

A Wedding.

A little girl of three and a half years defined a wedding as "it's when a lady goes into church with a curtain on her head and comes out with a man."

It is not by sitting on the fence and counting the weeds in our neighbor's field that we obtain a better harvest.

A WIDOW'S WANTS

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

It was generally understood in the village of Crowell that Deacon Henderson had his eye on the Widow Glazier. Why not? The deacon was fifty-five and a widower and wanted a home. The widow was fifty and lonely.

Deacon Henderson dropped into the widow's cottage one day, and after complimenting her on her hollyhocks and tomato vines he said:

"Widder, do you know what the folks are saying?"

"La, no!"

"They are saying that you're me ought to get married."

"But I can't get my breath! It's all so sudden. Deacon, if we get married we'll live in your house, won't we?"

"We will."

"And you'll put down a new carpet on the parlor floor?"

"For why? The one there is a good one."

"It's a rag carpet, and it's twenty years old. I helped Sarah cut and sew the rags. I shall want a Brussels with patterns of roses."

"Um! Too much extravagance."

"Then I won't marry you."

The deacon went away in a huff and trying to make himself believe that he had a lucky escape. However, after thinking it over for a week he returned to say:

"I guess I'd be willing to buy that carpet."

"But I want something else. We must have three lace curtains. They must be long 'nuff to sweep the floor."

"Store carpet and store curtains!" shouted the deacon in dismay. "Why, widder, you'd bankrupt us in a month! No, no! Green paper shades are good 'nuff for us."

"Then I guess we won't get married. Folks have hinted that you was stinky, and now I see you are."

Away went the deacon for the second time, and for two days he patted himself on the back. He could figure that he had saved over $50 on that deal. The rag carpet and the paper shades looked good to him as he sat in the parlor, but after three or four days he found the old loneliness creeping over him. He would give in to her. He waited one day more and then called on her under pretense that he had mislaid his family almanac and wanted to know when the moon would be in her third quarter. After finding that out he said:

"Well, widder, maybe you are right about the carpet and curtains."

"Deacon, I've been thinking since you were here we must have four stuffed chairs to put in that parlor to go with the new carpets and curtains."

"Saints and sinners! Stuffed chairs! Stuffed chairs in our parlor! Never, Widder Glazier, never! The carpet and curtains would tempt Satan 'nuff. I don't propose to risk any more."

"Four stuffed chairs, deacon, and maybe a sofa to boot."

"I'm going home. Good day!"

Those stuffed chairs, with an additional sofa looming up in the near future, were a shock to the deacon. They meant extravagance; they meant vanity; they meant the breaking down of long erected barriers. No; it could not be. He must continue his lonely life by his lonesome. He did continue it for ten long days and nights. Then he went over to ask the Widow Glazier if the rater bug had yet appeared in her garden and to offer to lend her some paris green to dope him with if he had. No, the bug had not appeared. But the deacon had other things to say. Leaning on the well curb and the widow standing in her kitchen door, he observed:

"I s'pose one can sit down on a stuffed chair?"

"Oh, yes!"

"And they don't make a body rain?"

"Never heard of it."

"And they are with the money you have to pay for 'em?"

"They surely are!"

"Well, we might get 'em. Shall we be married next month?"

"I-I dunno. What about your house?"

"Why, it's there in the same old place, ain't it?"

"Yes, but it needs repainting."

"You mean it wants another coat of whitewash. Well, me and you will do that together."

"But we won't, deacon. It's got to be painted—real paint, and two coats at that. It's got to be pea green with darker green for trimmings."

For the first time in his life the deacon lost consciousness and things whirled around with him. When he braced up the widow was saying:

"And new front steps, and a new sidewalk, and a new picket fence, and a pump in the well, and then we must have brass bedsteads and china dishes."

The deacon got home with shaking knees and fell upon the bed and sent for the doctor and the minister. The doctor said he'd get well, and the minister said he wouldn't lose his soul even by having a gold framed mirror in the parlor. It was a terrible struggle, but after two weeks the day was set and a marriage duly followed. There were those who thought the deacon would droop and die, but he didn't. He is hale and hearty and very proud of his wife and house and stuffed chairs and things, and he may even have a bell at the front door before he goes hence.

Base Ball News Items.

A dispatch from New Orleans Friday said: "Manager Chance's Cubs broke out of the maiden class today and won their first game of 1911, beating the Pelicans 6 to 2. The feature of the game was the wonderful pitching of Fred Toney, the new Cub, who worked four innings on the slab. Toney has developed a marvelous overhand curve, and he used it effectively today. He fanned six Pelicans in the four rounds, and only one of his opponents knocked out a safety."

Alfred Kaiser, erstwhile Bourbonite, is practically sure of a birth on the Louisville American Association Club. Kaiser has been playing in the center garden since the Colonels have been at practice in the Falls City and is fielding, batting and running bases to his old form.

Fell From Bridge.

James Neal, employed in the construction of the new L. & N. bridge spanning Houston creek, fell from the structure yesterday morning, a distance of about twenty-five feet to a portion of the old masonry and sustained painful though not serious injuries. In his descent Neal struck an iron studding, bruising his right shoulder. One finger on his left hand was dislocated. He was taken to the office of Drs. Fithian and Daugherty where his injuries received attention. Neal's home is in Livingston.

Dynamite Placed on Bed.

Annie Cox, colored, was killed at Hopkinsville Saturday morning by the explosion of a stick of dynamite that someone had placed in bed with her. The woman had a lover with whom she recently quarreled, but had seemingly made up. After the explosion he was missing, and some clothing he had at the house was also gone. The police are looking for him. The dynamite was evidently laid on top of the cover, beside the woman.

Harry (Rags) Beveridge Coming Back.

Manager Porter, of the Paris Grand, has secured the services of Harry (Rags) Beveridge, the pianist, who made such a decided hit with his manipulation of the ivories at the Grand last season. Mr. Beveridge, since leaving Paris, has been engaged as leader of the orchestra at the Majestic Theatre in Birmingham, Alabama, where his work has been one of the features of the performances. The Amusement Guide, a publication devoted to the interests of the theatrical profession, pays Mr. Beveridge the following high compliment:

"Added to this bill is the standing attraction of Harry 'Rags' Beveridge, the manipulator of the ivories. His work at the piano sustains his reputation as a real piano player, not only in the estimation of the patrons of this pretty theatre, but also of the performers. Harry's impromptu composition of rag has earned for him the sobriquet of 'Rags.' His ability, however, is not confined merely to ragtime, but plays anything. He is a vaudeville pianist par excellence."

Mr. Beveridge will arrive in Paris on next Sunday night and will begin work at the Grand on Monday night. His many friends in Paris are already arranging to give him a warm reception on that night.

Narrow Escape in Folding Bed Accident.

Mrs. C. C. Leer and her daughter, Miss Carroll, narrowly escaped death by suffocation Thursday night as they were retiring. They had gotten into the bed, which was an old-fashioned cabinet folding couch, when by some manner unknown to the ladies, the stationery part of the bed fell, completely imprisoning them. The cabinet bed contains a wardrobe and bookcase and the latter was filled with books. Mr. Leer was the only other occupant of the house at this time and he was ill, but hearing the muffled cries of his wife and daughter he hastened to their assistance. The cabinet was so heavy that it was slowly but surely suffocating the ladies when Mr. Leer finally succeeded in rescuing Mrs. Leer and with their combined efforts Miss Leer was released from the bed. Both the ladies suffered painful injuries.

ous lunch was served. It was presented by all present a most enjoyable affair.

—Mrs. Cassius M. Clay entertained Friday at her home in Bourbon county with a most beautiful party in honor of Miss Florence Lockhart, of Paris, whose marriage to Mr. John Davis will be celebrated in April.

The elegant home was ablaze with spring flowers and the hostess wore a handsome gown of black chiffon over violet satin. The beautiful bride-elect was gowned in pale gray chiffon. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Hinton, Mrs. E. F. Clay, Mrs. Vansant.
The party was a linen shower very perfectly arranged. The small gifts in linen, dainty embroideries, laces and crocheted pieces were placed in a large white wedding bell that hung in the arch of the folding doors. As Miss Lockhart stood beneath it a ribbon was pulled by Miss Edna Earle Hinton, who as the shower came down gave a pretty toast. The larger presents for the shower were brought in a basket all covered with white and tied with green ribbon and Miss Mary Fithian Hutchcraft presented this with a charming speech.

Luncheon was then served, the menu being delicious the bride-elect and her most intimate friends were seated at a large table in the dining room, and the other guests at smaller tables.

The decorations were pink carnations in silver vases, all the other appointments in lovely accord.

Those present were: Mesdames O. L.

A more elaborate reception has not been given in Paris in years than the one Saturday, given by Brigadier General and Mrs. Louis Mussinon at their beautiful suburban home in South Paris. The occasion was the celebration of their silver anniversary. About two hundred guests called during the hours which were from 10 a. m. to 1 p.
m. At night from the hours of 7 to 10
p. m. General and Mrs. Mussinon were host and hostess to A. J. J. Lovely Company
No. 24 Uniform Rank R. of P. and Rathbone Lodge No. 12 K. of P.

The beautiful home was exquisitely decorated for the occasion with huge potted plants, cut flowers and ropes of smilax, carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

An Italian harp orchestra discoursed sweet music during the entertainment, they being entirely concealed from view in the sun parlor by tropical plants.

The host and hostess assisted by Mrs. James B. McCracken, of Newport, received the guests in the large reception hall.

Mrs. Mussinon was attractive in a magnificent gown of black lace over rose colored satin and carried a bou-quet of bride's roses. She wore diamond ornaments that were presented for the occasion by General Mussinon.
Mrs. McCracken was charming in an exquisite gown of orange colored satin. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and wore diamond ornaments.

These who assisted in entertaining were Mrs. S. H. Stivers, Mrs. Mary Walker, Mrs. F. M. Faries and Mrs.
E. B. Heddes. Misses Alice Grasty and Alice Hughes, of Lexington, presided at the frappe table, which occupied a cozy corner in the reception hall. A bevy of young ladies from Lexington, students in the State University, Misses Lydia Eversole, Elizabeth Bettinger, Julia Gaines, Alice Grasty, Mattie and Ruby Stivers and Lena Hughes served the luncheon in courses, the individual ices carrying out the color scheme of white and pink.

The center table in the spacious dining room was beautifully decorated with cut glass bowls of blooming flowers while in the center was a circle of twenty-five burning tapers emblematic of the twenty-five years of the couple's happy married life.

Covers were laid for sixty guests for a time and a sumptuous luncheon consisting of substantial and ices was served.

The happy couple were handsomely remembered with beautiful silver gifts which were on display in the hall.

As the guests departed they were each presented with a pair of tiny silver shoes as a souvenir of the happy occasion.

Caught Rifling Safe.

Ed Brooke, Ed Washington and Isaac Holdman, three colored boys, of the Hutchinson neighborhood, are in jail charged with rifling the safe of the firm of Lynch & Wiggins, at Hutchinson. For several weeks past sums of money have been missed from the safe at various times and all efforts on the part of the proprietors to detect the thief have proved fruitless.

On Friday one of the windows of the store which was never used was found to be unlatched and thinking perhaps some person had made this preparation with a view of entering the store a trap was set to catch the thief.

At the noon hour Mr. Wiggins and James Jacoby departed from the store ostensibly to go to dinner. When they had gone a short distance they retraced their steps going to the rear of the store where they found the window which was left unlatched open. Entering the store Jacoby found Washington before the open safe from which he had removed all the cash. Unable to make an exit the negroes submitted to arrest and were brought to Paris where they were turned over to the authorities.

Let Him Stay as He Was.
A well known veterinary surgeon of Lemberg, Austria, was recently called to the telephone, when this conversation followed:
"Hello! Is this Dr. N.?"
"Yes. What do you wish?"
"My horse is standing stock still on his hind legs, with his forefeet in the air, and nothing can make him come down on all fours. Did you ever hear of such a queer case? What shall I do about it?"
"The case is extraordinary," replied the astonished doctor. "I can give no opinion without seeing the animal. Where do you live?"
"Carl-Ludwig strasse."
"And your name?"
"Sobleski."

Here the doctor rang off and swore softly at the wag who had fooled him. The horse in question was the bronze animal which upholds upon its back the fine equestrian statue of John Sobleski, king of Poland, which ornaments the Carl-Ludwig street in Lemberg.

Making the Money Last.
Rosa Bonheur used to say that her youth was one of great poverty. Then she would add some droll stories about the family method of regulating its finance. The studio was a collection of odds and ends, and M. Bonheur knew how to turn that disorder to account. When he received money for his work he would take a handful of coin and throw it at random about the room. Then in times of stress, when there was apparently not a farthing left in the house, the entire family would set to work searching in nooks and corners. Sometimes they would find a five franc piece, and that would ward off starvation. To perfect herself in her study of animals young Rosa spent days in a slaughter house. The men were perplexed at seeing a young woman there and sometimes made it disagreeable for her, but good M. Emile, a butcher of great strength, announced that whosoever annoyed her would have to reckon with him. Then she was enabled to work undisturbed.

Flogging Petty Criminals.
Flogging, claimed by some to be a survival of barbarism in England, is given credit by others as being the most potent factor in ridding London of petty criminals and assuring public safety. Many criminals become so familiar with the prison routine as to lose all horror of it. In fact, life is so wretched for certain classes of undesirable in London that they would commit petty crimes as a means of gaining entrance to a prison were it not for the wholesome fear of floggings. The cat-o-nine-tails used for the floggings has been deprived of its knots and is not laid on so strenuously as in the old days, while with young offenders the birch rod is brought into play. A physician is always on hand to stop the flogging should the culprit evince signs of fainting. Although the flogging punishment has thus been mitigated, it does not seem to have lost its effectiveness.—Popular Mechanics.

Might Spare a Few.
It is said that never was there a gentler critic than Dr. McClintock of Dickinson college. One day a young orator presented his speech for Dr. McClintock's approval. He evidently did not anticipate adverse criticism. He received it nevertheless, given in the doctor's gentle, humorous way, which never could offend.
"It's a good speech," he said, "but there is perhaps a little too much of a certain sort of rhetoric. For instance, I find in it two midnight owls, two midnight wolves, three American eagles and four unfurled banners. It seems to me that the supply exceeds the demand."

A Mighty Big Can.
An Irish harvester found himself in a small Scottish town. At the gas works he saw a gasometer for the first time in his life and stopped a countryman who was passing to ask, "What's that big round thing there standing on end?"
The Scotshman scratched his head and replied, "A diuna ken."
"Get out with you," said the Irishman. "You never saw a diuna can as big as that in your life."

Putting His Foot In It.
Guest (to hostess at private theatricals)—Madam, you played your part splendidly. It fits you to perfection.
Hostess—I'm afraid not. A young and pretty woman is needed for that part.
Guest—Oh, but, madam, you have positively proved the contrary.—Boston Transcript.

Its Class.
"How do you like my new hat? Isn't it a darling? Only $10!" exclaimed a delighted lady to her husband.
"Great Scott! You said the hats could be bought at from $2.50 up."
"Yes, dear; this is one of the ups!"

Mild Exactions.
"Bliggins says he loves his work."
"I should think he would. He's one of the men whose work leaves them about half the day to play golf."—Washington Star.

Feminine Economy.
Mrs. Kulcker—The lobster she ate cost her a hundred dollars in doctor's bills. Mrs. Bocker—And she only ate it to keep it from going to waste."—Harper's Bazar.

To a Flanders 20 is Credited the Most Remarkable Endurance Feat of the Season of 1910.

A stock car left Quebec, Canada, June 6th, and after an uninterrupted journey of 4,128 miles, arrived at Mexico City, August 3rd.

One of the first of the 1911 models to reach the Pacific Coast, a four passenger "Suburban," won a unique distinction by the Longest Non-Stop Run in the Annals of Motordom.

The motor was started December 2nd, and was run continuously, not even stopping when the car was at rest taking on supplies. On December 28th the car passed the former record of 10,974.4, continuing to traverse the streets of and roads of Los Angeles until it had placed the figures at a point out of reach of all competition for years to come.

Later, on December 30th, the car's record was 10,872 miles. The run was under the auspices of the Automobile Association of Southern California, and observer from which was always on the car, day and night.

Flanders Cars are among the cheapest to maintain, the actual running expenses at the present price of tires, being less than 3 per cent. per mile. For sale by

Not the Answer He Expected.

Whitehead, whose dramatic appeals to his listeners were always a noteworthy part of his sermons, once preached to a body of seamen in New York. In the course of his sermon he introduced the following words:

"Well, my boys, we have a clear sky and are making fine headway over a smooth sea before a light breeze, and we shall soon lose sight of land. But what means this sudden lowering of the heavens and that dark cloud rising from the western horizon? Hark! Don't you hear the distant thunder? Don't you see those flashings of lightning? There is a storm gathering. Every man to his duty! How the waves rise and dash against the ship! The air is dark. The tempest rages! Our masts are gone! The ship is on her beam ends! What next?"

The hands of every sailor were gripping the pews in front of them, and a wild excitement was in their eyes. And when the preacher reached the climax of his dramatic speech they sprang to their feet in a body and shouted, "Take the longboat!"—New York Sun.

Tramps and Cuff Muzzlers.

The most curious article in the tramp's outfit bears an appropriately odd name—the "cuff muzzler." It consists of the leg of an old stocking cut up into short lengths and worn over the wrist like a thick mitten, and its object is to increase the circumference of the wrist to such an extent that a constable cannot easily slip a handcuff over it.

Indeed, a pair of "cuff muzzlers"—which are worn by none save veteran roadsters—make it very difficult for a constable alone and unaided to handcuff their wearer. Tramps' tools bear puzzling names. Particularly cryptic is "fiddle," the term for a big nail carried by the "spike ranger" or itinerant who goes from one casual ward to the next. Should he fall into the hands of the police it is used in "oakum worrying"—that is, separating the strands of hard rope.—Baltimore American.

A Woman's Letter.

Women, it is generally admitted, write much better letters than men. M. Marcel Prevost discovered the reason for this superiority. "The obvious meaning is never the one we should read into a woman's letter. There is always a veiled meaning. Woman makes use of a letter just as she employs a glance or a smile, in a way that is carefully thought out and with an eye to effect. And, after all, does a woman's hat serve to cover her head? Does a woman's parasol keep off the sun? Why, then, should a woman's letter serve to convey her real thoughts to the person addressed, just like the letters of some honest grocer, who writes, 'I send you five pounds of coffee,' because he really does send you five pounds of coffee?"—London Spectator.

Long Distance Courtship.

A lady was one day approached by her Scotch maid with the information that she was about to leave. "What is the cause of this sudden decision, Mary?"

"I think I'll be a-marryin'."

"Indeed, and whom, may I ask?"

"The man that sits across in the kirk o' Sundays."

"But what is his name?"

"I dinna ken."

"What! You're surely not engaged to a man whose name you do not know?"

"Not engaged, my lady, but he's ben lang lookin' at me, an' I think he'll soon be speakin'!"—Housekeeper.

Matchmaking In Roumania.

In Roumania once every year is a fair of marriageable girls. The girl, with her relations, gets into a wagon, which also contains her dowry—linen, furniture and household matters—and all set off for the fair. When they arrive the girls are drawn up in one line and the men in another, with their parents behind them. Then if a young man likes the look of any particular girl he talks to her while the parents compare notes as to their possessions and their circumstances in life. If all is found satisfactory there's a marriage at once, and the bride is driven away by her husband to her new home.

Duncan Smoked In Church.

Sir Walter Scott in his "Heart of Midlothian" refers to one Duncan of Knockdunder, an important personage, who smoked during the whole of the sermon from an iron pipe tobacco borrowed from other worshippers. We are told that at the end of the discourse he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, replaced it in his sporran, returned the tobacco pouch to its owner and joined in the prayer with decency and attention.

A Complex Accomplishment.

"I understand you speak French like a native."

"No," replied the student. "I've got the grammar and the accent down pretty fine, but it's hard to learn the gestures!"—Washington Star.

The Surest Place.

Speaker (warning to his subject)—What we want is men with convictions, and where shall we find them? Voice—In jail, gov'nor.—London Telegraph.

When One Loses Confidence.

After a man loses confidence in himself it is not likely that anybody else is going to exhibit much enthusiasm over his abilities.—Chicago Record-Herald.

God gives every bird its food, but does not throw it into the nest.—Tit 20ml.

CATARH!

Cured by the Marvel of the Century, B. B. B.—Tested for 30 Years.

Hawking, spitting, foul breath, discharges of yellow matter permanently cured with pure botanical ingredients. To prove it we will send you a SAMPLE TREATMENT FREE. Catarrh is not only dangerous but it causes ulcerations, death and decay of bones, kills ambition, often causes loss of appetite, and reaches to general debility, idiocy and insanity. It needs attention at once. Cure it by taking Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) It is a quick, radical, permanent cure because it rids the system of the poison germs that cause catarrh. At the same time Blood Balm (B. B. B.) purifies the blood, does away with every symptom of catarrh. B. B. B. sends a tingling flood of warm, rich, pure blood direct to the paralyzed nerves, and parts affected by catarrhal poison, giving warmth and strength just where it is needed, and in this way making a perfect, lasting cure of catarrh in all its forms. Forced to Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight. It's surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup—all throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free at Oberdorfer's.

A Dreadful Sight

Mr. Aaron McConnell is gaining a decided reputation as an oculist. His business along this line is improving every day and he has demonstrated to those to whom he has fitted that he is in every way qualified to do the work. Our town was startled Saturday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock by the explosion of the acetone light plant in the drug store of Waddell & Co. Messrs. W. D. and Ed Waddell and W. E. Powell had been giving the plant an overhauling. All the carbide had been taken from it. The machine was still warm and contained some gas. It is located in the basement of the building and they were about ready to re-charge it. Mr. W. D. Waddell had gone up into the store and Mr. Powell had gone to the hardware store of Miller & Best for something needed about the machine. Mr. Ed Waddell was alone in the basement when the terrific explosion occurred. There were several in the store at the time. A rush was made for the basement and he was found lying some distance from the machine, seemingly unconscious. He was at once taken to the office of the store and Dr. C. B. Smith hastily summoned. He is badly cut about the face, one jaw broken and several teeth out. After the wounds were dressed he was taken to his home and is resting as comfortably as can be expected at this writing. No cause can be assigned for the explosion. This firm uses a gasoline plant but some days ago a part of the machinery was sent to the factory for repairs. The acetone plant which has been used for lighting the building at times and is used for cooking syrups was put in to use and so far as is known was thought to be in good condition. The repairs that were being put on at the time of the explosion were of a trivial nature.

The latest account from the bedside of Mr. Waddell is to the effect that he is resting as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Jealous Lexington.

Lexington, now a little more than a flag station on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, through its Commercial Club will make an effort to induce the railroad company to recognize it as a city of "reunitive and attractive advantages" and place it on the Main line to the South.

In a lengthy communication published in the Lexington Herald Sunday, John G. Cramer, Secretary of the Commercial Club of the "great city of imagination," urges that body to take immediate action with this object in view and submits arguments in great profusion as to the benefits Lexington wholesale and retail merchants could reap from the surrounding territory through which the L. & N. line extends.

Through the article of Secretary Cramer can readily be sent the spirit of jealousy existing among Lexington people because of the fact Paris is now the recognized center of the division. Every promise is given that as soon as the extension of the L. & E. is completed Paris will be made the terminus of that line, much to the embarrassment of Lexington who has awakened to the realization that it hasn't even a ghost of a show to become anything more than a stopping point on this line.

In his communication Secretary Cramer overlooks Paris as the center of the division and points to Lexington as being the only logical place as a base of operation for promoters in the development of the State's resources, in territory yet unopened by a railroad. In referring to a proposed line from Lexington to Richmond some years ago, and which was discouraged by Lexington people and not allowed to go through he says:

"Some years ago the Kentucky Central Railroad wanted to build a line direct from Lexington to Richmond in order to connect Cincinnati and Knoxville, but our enterprising citizens of that time discouraged the scheme and would not allow it to be done."

"The consequence was that the Kentucky Central was forced to build a semi-subway from Paris through Winchester, to Richmond, which is now the teeming main line, crowded with trains that we want through here. The most expert mathematicians in the world could not now compute the loss that shortsightedness has cost Lexington since that time."

"We now have an opportunity to recuperate that loss to some extent if we try."

Referring to the "Lexington Terminal" Secretary Cramer says: "The purchase of the Kentucky Midland makes possible the hauling of traffic between Louisville and the Cincinnati and Maysville divisions of the Kentucky Central through Paris and Georgetown, and the 'Lexington Terminal' is set back another notch in the 'local yard' class, and yet not one of our citizens has a word to say, or seemingly cares a rap."

"The Queen & Crescent has 'localized' Lexington and made its big terminals elsewhere, and still not a croak."

The wail now goes up after it is realized what Lexington has lost and they want to get on the main line. There is a great probability the L. & N. will do as much for it as has been given out by officials that this was the original intention.

Fruit Prospects.

Mr. Hillenmeyer, the noted Fayette county nurseryman, has given out the following concerning the fruit outlook in Kentucky: "Fruit in Central Kentucky is yet uninjured, thanks to the recent heavy sleet. The fruit buds were developed fast as a result of the days of rising temperature, but the cold wave came in time to check nature's advance and the sleet that followed protected the buds. Central Kentucky is about due for a good fruit crop, and the old adage of a heavy sleet, meaning a full fruit crop, is likely to be realized. The sleet told heavily on peach trees and many a young tree was almost barren of twigs when the weight of the ice lifted. Cherries, plums, pears, peaches and apples promise abundant yields, while the strawberry crop which last year was ruined by a light freeze in May, will probably, this year, make a record breaking yield. When the generally accepted theory of setting small fruits in the spring of the year and fruit and foliage trees in the fall, is considered the surest way, yet good results are obtainable in the spring of the year in setting out fruit trees, in the spring of the year in setting out fruit trees, in the fall. The pruning season is now on in full blast, in fact, it is nearing its close, and yet we venture the assertion that many farmers and orchardists have neglected this important work. Pruning a tree or raspberry bush is as necessary as sucking tobacco or thinning a bill of corn."

Trial Set for Today.

George McCandlas was arranged in Police Court yesterday on two charges, that of disorderly conduct and carrying concealed weapons. On the former charge he was assessed a fine of $7.50 and the trial of the latter was continued until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

McCandlas was arrested and jailed Saturday night by Patrolman Chas. Thomas, after he had flourished revolver of exceedingly large calibre somewhere along Main between Seventh and Eighth streets. He was in an intoxicated condition and would perhaps have used his gun had not the officer interfered.

Other cases disposed of in Police Court by Judge January were: James Claypole, white, disorderly conduct, $7.50; Henry Davis, colored, disorderly conduct, $7.50; Wm. Stroter, colored, disorderly conduct, $7.50.

Epidemic of Measles.

Paris is suffering from an epidemic of measles and Health Officer A. H. Keller reports about one hundred cases now under treatment in the city. Every effort is being made to check the spread of the disease, that it may not interfere with the schools. Whooping cough and scarlet fever is also prevalent, a large number of adults suffering with the former. About half dozen cases of scarlet fever have developed but the physicians are of the opinion that they have the disease well under control. It is essential that all cases of measles, whooping cough or scarlet fever be reported to the Health officer and when the case is discharged the quarters occupied by the patient should be thoroughly fumigated.
